

EBC and 3 high passes

Trip Overview

Everest Base Camp (EBC):

Nestled at the foot of the world's highest peak, Mount Everest, Everest Base Camp is a legendary destination for trekkers and mountaineers alike. Located in the Khumbu region of Nepal, the base camp offers breathtaking panoramic views of surrounding peaks and a unique cultural experience as trekkers pass through Sherpa villages. The journey to EBC is an adventure filled with rugged trails, suspension bridges, and the thrill of reaching an altitude of 5,364 meters (17,598 feet).

Three High Passes in the Everest Region:

Embarking on the Everest Three High Passes trek is a test of endurance and a chance to witness the grandeur of the Himalayas from different perspectives, making it a memorable adventure for those seeking both physical challenge and natural beauty.

Kongma La Pass:

Kongma La is the highest of the three passes, reaching an elevation of 5,535 meters (18,159 feet). Crossing this pass involves a steep ascent and descent, rewarding trekkers with unmatched views of the Everest massif, Lhotse, and Makalu.

Cho La Pass:

Sitting at an altitude of 5,420 meters (17,782 feet), Cho La Pass is a challenging yet rewarding high pass that links the Gokyo Valley with the Everest Base Camp trail. The pass offers striking vistas of Ama Dablam and the Khumbu Glacier.

Renjo La Pass:

Renjo La Pass stands at an elevation of 5,360 meters (17,585 feet) and connects the Gokyo Valley with the Thame Valley. Trekkers crossing Renjo La are treated to awe-inspiring views of Everest, Cho Oyu, and the turquoise Gokyo Lakes.
