

EVEREST BASE CAMP TREKKING

Trip Overview

The region on “top of the world”, Mt. Everest-Sagarmatha in Nepali and Chomolungma in Tibetan-is one of the most popular destination for trekkers, explorers and climbers. As well as the world’s highest mountain, it is also famous for its magnificent scenery, Sherpa villages, the fascinating cultural life of the people, and beautiful monasteries. Treks in this area can be as short as 5 days or longer than a month depending on your fitness, interest and the time you have available. The treks to Everest Base Camp, Kalapathar and Gokyo lake treks are very popular.

For those people who are interested in the wildlife, a further attraction is Sagarmatha National Park. The route passes through spectacular forests of blooming rhododendron in March/ April, as well as forest of blue pine, fir and juniper.

Trekking in Everest region is breathtaking (literally) and requires good walking experience, good health and good physical fitness. Hard physical work is rewarded with panoramic view of Everest (8848m), Cho Oyu (8152m), Lhotse (8516m), Makalu (8463m) and Ama Dablam (6456m). You can visit famous Sherpa villages like Namche Bazaar, the Buddhist monastery at Tengboche, Khunde, Khumjung and many others.

The Everest region is world renowned for its glorious and highest mountain Mount Everest or Sagarmatha as it is locally known. The Sherpa people predominantly live in this region which has much to offer to the tourists. Everest Base Camp, and Kalapathar, Highest point (5545m) and highlight of your trip.
